"I fully recognize that the cause which directly leads you to manifest such warmth of feeling in the establishment of a College in this ancient and historic town... the conviction that increased facilities for higher education in Assam were indispensably necessary. The matter is one that I had intended to take up earlier... The financial difficulty indeed still remains, but I trust to be able to overcome it so far as to be able to construct within this cold season a college in this locality... I hope, the new college building will be completed and crowded with young Assamese students and Bengalis too,... I trust that the college will be a practical success... conclude by wishing all success to the new College, which is to be shortly established."

-Speech delivered by Sir Henry Cotton at Gauhati on the 31st of November, 1899

"The public of Gauhati could not have done a more appropriate thing to perpetuate the memory of the foremost popular ruler of the province than by associating his name with the College at Gauhati which is to be opened shortly. They have resolved and the Chief Commissioner has accepted their resolution to name the new college as 'Cotton College'."

"I am glad to bring to the notice of my successors the assistance I have received on many occasion from Sjt M. C. Baruah of Gauhati on land revenue questions, on the schemes for reorganizing the local boards, on public matters generally and specially in connection with the new Government College at Gauhati. I have derived much advantage from his advice, I have always found him public spirited citizen with the interest of his fellow countrymen deeply at heart."

"Assam is the only province which has not got a college. Indeed it has not a high institution worth the name. A college at Gauhati with a European Principal will be better appreciated by the students than similar private institutions in Calcutta (owned by native gentlemen) to which they generally resort."

"Mr. F. W, Sudmersen

Mr. Frederick William Sudmersen, C. I. E., late of the Indian Educational Service, died on Sunday at the age of 82. He was Principal of Cotton College, Gauhati, Assam, from 1901 to 1926, At the college which has since become university, he devoted himself to welding the students, who were of mixed descents - Assamese, Bengalis and many smaller groups from the hills and borders of Assam-into a well-disciplined but happy family, and his work was specially praised by the Sadler, Calcutta University Commission. He was made a C.LE. in 1926..."
