Speaker: Mr Binode Chetia

Binode Chetia is a retired Deputy General Manager (Geophysics) from ONGC with vast experience in applying geoscientific data for oil and gas exploration and reservoir studies. He has a strong academic background in geophysics and advanced professional training, which earned him recognition in petroleum exploration and production.

Alongside his professional career, he has authored and coauthored several research papers in reputed journals. He was also a national-level athlete, representing Assam four times in track and field events. A passionate reader and writer, he is now dedicated to guiding the younger generation on physical and mental health for overall well-being.

At present, he is writing a technical book on hydrocarbon exploration, which is in the editing stage, aimed at improving the understanding of reservoir characterization methods in the oil industry.

We hope this session with him will inspire our younger generation to balance academics with personal growth and to be better prepared for present-day challenges.
